

Dynamic Transitions

Raquel M. Rojas

APPENDIX A: Presentation Breakdown and Transition Possibility

1. Greeting
 - a. Good afternoon, everyone. _____
 - b. My name is _____ (speak slowly)
2. Hook (optional)
 - a. question
 - b. surprising fact or statistic
3. Thesis
 - a. Today, I'm going to convince you _____
 - b. I will prove that _____
4. Background information
 - a. Before that, I will explain who (this person) is.
5. Restate Reason 1*
 - a. To begin, restate thesis + Reason 1
6. Provide evidence for Reason 1
 - a. For example,
 - b. An example of this is _____
7. Restate Reason 2*
 - a. Next, restate thesis + Reason 2
 - b. The second reason why thesis is Reason 2
8. Provide evidence for Reason 2*
9. Restate Reason 3
 - a. Finally, restate thesis + Reason 3
 - b. Last but not least, restate thesis + Reason 3
10. Provide evidence for Reason 3
11. Summarize thesis (position and reasons)
 - a. To sum up,
 - b. In conclusion,
12. Thank audience
13. Ask for questions

APPENDIX B: Sample Presentation Script (Incomplete)

Greeting (1)	Thesis and Outline (2) Jane Roe is the next global leader because she thinks globally about issues, she creates opportunities to understand and promote diversity, and she builds positive relationships with leaders of other countries.
Background (3) Jane Roe is 44 years old and married with 3 children. She completed a degree in education and was first elected in 2008. She is the second youngest prime minister of her country.	Reason 1 (4) Jane Roe truly is a global leader because she creates policies that consider the effects on the world and its resources.
Reason 1 Evidence (5) Jane Roe has promoted the investment of over $100 million in clean air technology and research.	Reason 2 (6) Jane Roe is a perfect example of a global leader because she supports diversity within her country.