TESOL’s mission is to ensure excellence in English language teaching to speakers of other languages.

Highlights of 2007

(Adapted from TESOL’s Annual Report for 2007)

- TESOL Publications introduced 6 new book titles in 2007 covering varied topics in technology, classroom practice, and research.
- TESOL Education continued to expand its online courses and virtual seminars. Over 1,000 professionals participated in these programs in 2007.
- TESOL approved six new position statements, including the Position Statement on Teacher Credentialing for Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages in Primary and Secondary Schools and the Position Statement on the Status and Rights of Teachers.

Other activities include:
- A new membership category Part-Time Employment (PTE) was introduced in January 2007 in response to the growing number of members employed on a part-time basis.
- The TESOL Resource Center (TRC), launched in February 2007, allows TESOL members to find and share a wide variety of resources for classroom use and professional development.
- The 2007 “Tides of Change” annual convention in March attracted over 7,700 attendees. Over 1,100 education sessions were offered and 150 exhibitors showcased their newest products and services.
- TESOL hosted its second annual Advocacy Day in June 2007. With the focus on reauthorization of No Child Left Behind (NCLB), 13 affiliate representatives received training on NCLB issues and visited key Capitol Hill legislators.
- TESOL implemented “open access” to members in June 2007. Members are no longer charged for participation in Interest Sections or Caucuses and have full access to all TESOL e-lists and e-newsletters.
- TESOL conducted a symposium in July 2007 in Argentina on Teaching English for Specific Purposes and attracted 131 attendees.
- TESOL published the revised edition of CALL Environments (edited by J. Egbert and E. Hanson-Smith) in September 2007. This volume provides for teachers in all settings state-of-the-art information on tools, new research, and new practical applications in computer-assisted language learning.
- TESOL conducted a symposium in October 2007 in the Ukraine on English Language Assessment and attracted 199 attendees.

TESOL was able to balance budgeted operating and investment revenue with expense to achieve the Association’s member service objectives and maintain a strong financial position for the fiscal year ending October 31, 2007.

Non-dues revenue programs (sponsorships, advertising, education) continue to play a key factor in the TESOL operating budget. Emphasis will continue to be placed on expanding these opportunities to further diversify TESOL revenue sources and strengthen program services. TESOL financial resources are effectively managed and monitored under the fiduciary leadership of the Board of Directors.
