
Table of Contents

Introduction

Chapter 1: How Would a Vacuum Cleaner Salesman Introduce a Book on Language Teaching Insights? 3

Christopher Stillwell

Getting Students Invested in Learning

Chapter 2: How Would a TV Commercial Producer Make Lessons as Memorable as an Ad? 13

Wendy Hendrickson

Chapter 3: How Can Neuroscience Inform Language Teaching? 21

Robert S. Murphy

Chapter 4: How Would a Teacher-Marketer Motivate Student-Customers? 33

Steven E. Quasha

Planning an Effective Course

Chapter 5: What Might the Language Classroom Look Like Through an Anthropological Lens? 49

Andrea Leone

Chapter 6: How Would an Economist Maximize Effectiveness in Language Teaching Subject to Constraints? 57

Clarice S. C. Chan

Chapter 7: How Could Practices for Teaching Students With Learning Disabilities Be Useful in the Language Classroom? 69

Susan C. Matson

Chapter 8: How Would a Project Manager Plan a Lesson? 77

Gladys Focho

Expanding the Teacher's Toolbox

Chapter 9: How Would Organizational Behavior Experts Suggest Grouping and Motivating Students? 91

Emily Austin Thrush

Chapter 10: How Would a Positive Psychologist Design Communicative Language Tasks to Elicit Positive Emotion? 103

Marc Helgesen

Chapter 11: How Would a Cognitive Behavioural Therapist Help Language Learners Deal With Internal Obstacles to Independent Learning? 117

Luke Carson

Chapter 12: What Can Language Teachers Learn From Psychiatrists About How to Listen? 125

Esther Boucher-Yip

Chapter 13: How Would a Business School Professor Teach Advanced-Level Discussion Skills? 133

Amy S. Nichols

Enhancing Teacher Effectiveness

Chapter 14: How Would a Creative Director Build a Teacher's Brand? 145

Ashlea Green

Chapter 15: How Can Teachers Use a Counseling Style of Nonjudgmental Discourse to Further Their Own Professional Development? 155

Julian Edge

Index 171