

Call for Authors: AI for English Language Teaching

April 2024

TESOL Press seeks an author for a new product in its TESOL No-Prep Activity Cards series, which is geared toward English language teachers who are looking for classroom activities that require little to no preparation.

The author will write 100 extremely brief tasks/activities related to specific language skills using AI as a tool to obtain a language objective. Activities should

- include individual, pair, group, and whole class work;
- include elements of prompt engineering and output analysis; and
- be appropriate for A2+ proficiency levels, and for teens and adults.

Commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Access (DEIA): TESOL values and seeks diverse and inclusive participation within the field of English language teaching and is committed to upholding antiracist and antidiscrimination policies and practices within the association. We encourage applicants to indicate how their expression of interest contributes to TESOL's DEIA commitment.

For your application, please select from one of the following sets of topics for the AI activities:

Grammar
Vocabulary
Mechanics
Pronunciation

Reading
Writing
Speaking
Listening

All authors receive compensation and are under contract to TESOL.

The product will be developed over a 2-month period, starting as soon as possible, with expected publication by the end of 2024.

If you are interested, please apply using the online application with

- an expression of interest,
- your CV, and
- four classroom activities, one for each skill:
  - grammar, vocabulary, mechanics, pronunciation, OR
  - reading, writing, speaking, listening.

Each sample activity should be no more than 200 words; no visuals or images included.

Deadline for submissions: 20 May 2024

TESOL will contact ONLY those applicants whose credentials best suit project requirements.
